They are indefatigable and untiring, they are profice of electioneering tricks, and regardies and mestrupulous as to the means to be employed. We must be prepared at all points and in every precinct to pash forward the American column and to win the victory in spite of all Sar-Nicht trickery. Their only hope of success: their excellent organization and the blits prompt o'edience of the masses of their party to access their excellent organization and the blits prompt o'edience of the masses of their party to access their excellent organization and the blits prompt o'edience of the masses of their party to access their excellent organization and the blits prompt o'edience of the masses of their party to access and the slace it of their party leaders. By this means they expect to overcome the American majority in the State. In the coming election they will be maided by the vast number of imported voters who enabled them to triumph in November, and they rely only inposite prestige of that success and the apathy of the Americans.

STEAMBOAT DISASTER-FURTHER DETAILS.

The steamer Montreal left at 4 colock yesterday aftermoon for Montreal, with from four to live hundred passengers, mostly Scotch emigrants, recently from Europe. Nothing unusual occurred until the Montreal reached Cape Bouge, 12 or 15 miles above Quebec, when the wood work near the furnaces was discoveted to be on lire. Directly after, the tlames broke forth, causing the utmost constraintion amongst the passengers. Every effort was made to arrest the flames, to up purpose. Captain Rudolphi, finding it impossible to save the steamer; ordered her to be run toward the shore. Her others index experted themselves in the same time to get out the life-boats. The flames apread with most astonishing rapidity. The wildest confusion and despair prevailed throughout the ship. Great numbers of the passengers threw themselves overboard and were drowned. Fortunately the steamer Najoleon for Muntreal, was but a few miles distant and put back with all possible speed to be assistance. The Xapoleon succeeded in rescuing from the lorning witerk 127 passengers. Captain Rudolpi and the purser of the Moutreal were among the number of those who threw themselves into the river, both less excellent swimmers they succeeded in reaching the steamer Alliauce and were arong the number of those who threw themselves from the burning, but as the steamer became unmanageable when at considerable distance from the land un doubt most of those who threw themselves from the burning boat met a watery grave. Thin York Peacurs.—It is now pretty certain that there will be a good crop of peaches in seedling trees in this vicinity, though the crop of the finer budded varieties will be quite short. There are some kinds of reedlings which if properly thinged on the trees will be very acceptable fruit, and, if brought to market in good order, will bring good prices. To secure the greatest advantage from the crop, it is absolutely necessary to begin now by histosing, the fruit where it is too thick on the trees. THE LAMB OF THE FOLD.

BY MER. F. B. M. BROTHEPSON,

I know a fold, a bappe fold,
Where household lambkins play,
Where joyons tones of childia mirth
Resclos through the day,
Lowe centiling heaven above it bends,
Mirrored in ellver streams,
And on its springing verdaut turf

Within this fold the pattering cound of little feet are heard,
And many a curl of chiuing lair
By opingar anoth breeze is sirred;
